

WAS HIRED TO LOBBY FOR TOLL EXEMPTION

WITNESS CLAIMS HE WAS EMPLOYED BY ADMIRAL BOWLES' SHIP BUILDING FIRM.

WAS PROMISED $4,000

C. W. DeKnight Tells Senate Committee of Contract to Work for Bill—Burnett Measure to Senate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 12.—That he contracted with former Rear Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River Ship Building company, for $1,000 and a contingent fee of $4,000 to work for toll exemption for American coastwise ships in the Panama canal, was charged today by Clarence W. DeKnight, before the senate lobby committee.

For his services in behalf of the Fore River Ship Building company before the senate canal committee when the Panama canal law was under consideration, DeKnight testified he was paid only the $1,000, despite the fact that the tolls exemption was included in the bill.

He demanded the $4,000 contingent fee from President Bowles after the bill was passed, but thought the reason he did not get it was because the bill did not go through in such form that the Fore River Ship Building company was to build some ships.

Was to Get $4,000. "Did your contract call for a contingency whereby the bill was to include a provision under which the government was to contract for ships in case the toll exemption was granted?" asked Senator Reed.

"No, I don't think so," said DeKnight. "I don't exactly remember the contingent fee, I was to get the $4,000 if the bill went through in such form. Anyhow, I know that Admiral Bowles' company did not get the contract to build the ships, I never threatened to sue. The matter was dropped there and I am still retained by the company in connection with some claims cases."

Bowles in Denial. Boston, Mass., March 12.—Rear Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River Ship Building company, today denied that he had employed Clarence W. DeKnight to work for toll exemption for American coastwise ships in the Panama canal, as testified by DeKnight before the senate lobby committee at Washington.

Favor Literacy Test. Washington, March 12.—The much discussed literacy test will remain in the Burnett immigration bill when it is presented to the senate for action today by the senate immigration committee, which will report the bill favorably.

There was a suggestion that the literacy test be dropped because of the risk of President Wilson's veto, but the majority of the committee did not believe that the test would carry his opposition to the feature so far as to veto the entire bill. Senators opposed to the test will fight it on the floor.

The provision for American health inspectors on immigrant vessels leaving foreign ports, to which Italy and some other foreign governments objected, was changed to provide that immigrant vessels carrying persons suspected of being deportable on account of disease may be detained after reaching port and the suspected persons confined on board until their cases are determined.

The provision for a head tax of $5 on each immigrant was changed to $6 for each unmarried and $4 for each married alien.

Signs Alaskan Bill. Arrangements were made at the White House today for President Wilson to sign the Alaskan bill at three p. m. Members of the senate and house and Secretary Lane, who worked for passage of the bill, were invited to be present.

MILITANCY NOT DEAD IN ENGLAND; PANKHURSTS STILL ACTIVE

Advices from England last month to the effect that the militant movement in that country was dying down and that one or more of the Pankhurst women had decided to adopt more peaceful methods, have not borne out by subsequent events. Within the past week or so there have been pitched battles between the Pankhursts and the authorities, and both Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, Sylvia, have been jailed. Christabel Pankhurst still remains in Paris, editing the Suffragette, but it is said she longs to return to her native land and get into the thick of the fray.

SENATE WANTS PAGE TO EXPLAIN SPEECH

Remarks of American Ambassador to England on Canal Situation Objectionable to Solons.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., March 12.—A resolution calling on Walter H. Page, American ambassador to Great Britain, for an explanation of a Panama canal speech which he is reported to have delivered last night before the associate chambers of commerce in London, was adopted today by the senate.

Surprises Ambassador. London, March 12.—Walter Hines Page, United States ambassador, was surprised when told today of the resolution passed by the senate in connection with his speech last night at the dinner of the association of chambers of commerce. He declined to discuss the matter until he had received an official demand for an explanation and details of what portion of his speech objection was made today.

He put the question to the interviewer: "The speech was innocent enough, wasn't it?"

Merely a Pleasantry. Asked whether objection might be taken to the last sentence of his speech referring to the Panama canal, Mr. Page replied that that was a pleasantry.

The ambassador spoke late in the evening and his remarks were extemporaneous. They were made after most of the reporters had left and no verbatim reports were made of them. The London newspapers differ slightly in the wording of the ambassador's remarks regarding Panama and Central American investment.

FINDS MILLIONAIRE RELATIVE IN WEST

Stevens Point Girl "Jumps" Industrial School to be the Ward of a Millionaire Uncle.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., March 12.—To be a charge of the Wisconsin state industrial school for girls one day and the next to be the ward of a millionaire uncle was the fortune of Helen Sherman, who for more than two years was in the care of the state institution.

The uncle who has taken her into his family is Charles E. Page of Tulsa, Okla., a man with an income of $5,000 a day from oil alone. Helen went to the school from Stevens Point.

Her relationship to the philanthropic millionaire became known when his name was mentioned recently as an example of the good use which could be made of money. "He is my uncle," Helen said.

Miss Mary J. Berry, superintendent of the school, talked with Helen and learned that Mr. Page was her mother's uncle, that he had gone west years before, that he sent them $50 every Christmas, and they knew in a vague way that he was very rich indeed.

At Miss Berry's suggestion Helen wrote to him, but no reply came. Little later Miss Berry wrote, telling him of Helen, of her good record in the school, and many useful things she had learned and asked him if he did not want to do something for her, or have her do something for him, since her training in the school might prove very useful in the orphanage.

As fast as the mail could bring it came his answer. Helen's letter had never reached him. Of course he wanted his niece to come; he would telegraph money for her transportation, and his wife would meet her in Kansas City. He would do whatever seemed best for her future.

Beloit Firm Dissolved. Articles of dissolution for the Williams Engine and Clutch Works of the city of Beloit were filed today at the register's office. C. H. Morse, Jr., was president and principal stock holder of the defunct corporation.

ART WORK MULTILATOR GETS MAXIMUM TERM

MAE RICHARDSON, BRITISH MILITANT SUFFRAGETTE, GIVEN SIX MONTHS SENTENCE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 12.—Miss Mae Richardson, the militant suffragette who on Tuesday hacked Valesquez's "Rokeby Venus," a famous painting in the National Gallery was today sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Tells Judge That "Slow and Premeditated Murder" of Mrs. Pankhurst Makes Necessary the Violence of Her Followers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 12.—Miss Mae Richardson, the militant suffragette who on Tuesday hacked Valesquez's "Rokeby Venus," a famous painting in the National Gallery was today sentenced to six months imprisonment.

The case against Miss Richardson was disposed of in record time. She was arrested on March 10, taken to Bow Street police, and committed for trial by the magistrate on the same day; the grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against her and today she was tried and convicted by a jury at the London session.

The public prosecutor in addressing the jury in behalf of the government said that one might well doubt whether the prisoner was in her right mind. There was, however, no medical evidence to show that she was a person not responsible for her actions.

Admits Premeditation. Miss Richardson has been on a "hunger strike" since her arrest. In replying to the charge today she said her act was premeditated and she pleaded guilty.

Addressing Judge Robert Wallace who presided over the court, Miss Richardson said, "I am an art student but I care more for justice than for art. I firmly believe that when the nation has shut its eyes to justice and has allowed women who are fighting for justice to be maltreated and tortured such an action as mine should be undesirable."

"The slow and premeditated murder of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst is the ultimatum which has made necessary the recent acts of her followers. The nation seems to be dead of sleep for we women have knocked vainly at the doors of ministers, bishops and archbishops and even of the king himself."

Disciple of Pankhurst. "I know that you will sentence me. I can stand only a few months in prison, but my fate makes little difference. I am really a grateful and happy woman because I have been able to live in a century in which Mrs. Pankhurst lived and because in a slight measure I have tried to carry out what I believe in."

As Judge Wallace was about to pass sentence the following colloquy occurred: The judge: "The picture had been destroyed no money could have been recovered." Miss Richardson: "Do you realize that no money can replace Mrs. Pankhurst? She is being slowly killed."

The judge: "You have pleaded guilty and have gloried in your crime." Miss Richardson: "I don't say that. I think it is a shame I had to consider it my duty to do it."

Gets Maximum Sentence. The judge: "It is my duty to pass sentence of six months imprisonment. I recognize that this sentence is totally inadequate, but it is the maximum sentence for damage to works of art. If the offense had been window breaking I could have given the prisoner eighteen months imprisonment."

Miss Richardson looked ill and it was suggested in some quarters that the precarious state of her health had been the reason for the taking of the unusual course of hurrying the trial. The charge against the prisoner was "malicious damage to a picture."

MILWAUKEE'S HUMAN POLAR BEAR WILL GIVE LECTURES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., March 12.—Frank Sutter, Milwaukee's human polar bear, will give a free lecture tonight on "Midwinter Bathing in the Lakes." He promises to convince his audience that the only safe way of building up one's health is to bathe weekly in low zero water in a below zero temperature.

Beginning with a $25 bet three years ago, Sutter and Joe Brazzelle began winter bathing at McKinley beach in North Milwaukee. For the first few days they shivered through-out, each anxious to retain his hold on the wagered $25. Then they began to enjoy the sport. Finally they laid down a program which has never varied—that is that every Sunday morning during the entire year they shall take a bath in Lake Michigan.

During the summer they are joined by many others who enjoy the non-toilet water of the summer months. The bathers are attached to the beach until late autumn has given an added chill to the water, but they have never enlarged their original club of two for all year swimming.

Choosing The Right Piano

One needs to be sure in piano buying. Quality and character count more than price. And the safest, surest guide to the right piano at the right price is the advertising in a live daily newspaper like The Gazette.

The best piano dealers are advertisers—reputable men who back up their reliable instruments with their own guarantee. Good pianos are not made by advertising. The types merely herald the quality which has already been put there by good materials and sound workmanship. There is no way in which the advertising in this paper can guide you with greater safety than in buying a piano

MORE REGIMENTS GO TO MEXICAN BORDER

WAR DEPARTMENT SENDS PICKED TROOPS TO PROTECT AMERICAN PROPERTY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 12.—Two more regiments of United States troops were moving to join the Mexican border patrol today. Two battalions of the 9th infantry at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and Fort Logan H. Roots, Arkansas, and the 17th infantry at Fort McPherson, Georgia, were loading baggage trains and assembling field equipment to move to Laredo and Eagle Pass to become part of a military force in the state of Texas larger by 3,000 men than the one Gen. Shafter led into Cuba.

Is Now Greater Than Shafter Had When He Began His Invasion of Cuba in 1898.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] The border patrol is being increased in numbers at the request of Senator Shepard and Representative Garner of Texas, who pointed out to Secretary Garrison that the Vergara incident had caused a great deal of uneasiness. It was pointed out that cattle were being stolen from Texas ranchers and that inasmuch as the American banks along the line were full of cash, confidence would be restored in a great measure by the presence of more troops. At the White House and at the war department it was stated that such was the only significance of the troop movement.

Are Assigned. Brigadier General Bliss will assign the new coming regiments to locations. They will relieve six troops of cavalry, which will then be free for active patrol duty.

On East Coast. Conditions along the east coast of Mexico were summarized today by Rear Admiral Fletcher in the following report to the navy department: "Rear Admiral Mayo reports from Tampico that federal troops in that vicinity are concentrated at Tampico and that no news of the constitutionalists, no rumors at Tampico, all quiet at Vera Cruz. Admiral Craddock is on the Hermosillo."

SHEBOYGAN LIGHT COMPANY WITHDRAWS APPLICATION TO INCREASE ITS RATES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 12.—At a hearing before the Wisconsin railroad commission yesterday afternoon the Sheboygan Railroad and Electric Company withdrew its application for higher street lighting rates in the city of Sheboygan. When the application was filed some time ago, the city applied for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to operate a municipal street lighting plant. At the hearing yesterday afternoon Attorney Edward R. Bowler for the company said that the company not only would withdraw the application for increased rates, but was ready and willing to provide any system of street lighting that the city desired. City Attorney Edward Vogel declined to withdraw the application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity and argued that it should be granted by the commission regardless of the stand taken by the lighting company.

SERVE INDICTMENTS ON BIG MERCHANTS

Charge Heads of Seigel Stores for Violating Banking Laws in Obtaining Credit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, March 12.—What the district attorney's office describes as "material for at least fifty indictments" alleging fraud against Seigel and Frank E. Vogel, president and vice president respectively of the Seigel Stores Corporation, who were arrested yesterday on three indictments and are now at liberty under $25,000 bail each, was placed in the hands of the grand jury today.

Assistant District Attorney Arthur C. Train said that as many indictments as the end of justice seemed to require would be found against the merchant bankers.

The indictments already found charge violation of the banking laws and grand larceny in making false statements to obtain credit.

SEARCH FOR BODIES PROVING SLOW WORK

Relative of Unrecovered Victims in St. Louis Disaster Complain of Dilatory Methods.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis, March 12.—All night examination of the ruins of the Missouri Athletic Club with the aid of search lights revealed one more victim of St. Louis' greatest fire disaster. A human leg burned to a crisp was the only reward of the efforts of 35 wreckers. The body found today was identified as that of Thomas J. Wright, auditor of the William J. Lemp Brewing Company of St. Louis.

This morning a fresh squad of 100 workmen resumed the work of clearing the mass of iron, brick and timber buried. Friends and relatives of the unrecovered dead today voiced vigorous complaint concerning the slowness with which the ruins are being cleared away.

To Hasten the Work the city may engage 40 to 50 more men. Fire chiefs say some of the bodies still in the ruins may be reached late today or tomorrow.

The vibration caused by trains running through the tunnel above which the club stood makes the task of removing the debris a perilous one as the roof of the seven story building already caved in to the third floor threatens to sink even farther. The south wall which alone was left intact by the fire of Sunday night also has weakened and may fall on the workmen at any time.

The funeral of the dead already recovered will take place today. The surviving club members have not recovered from the shock nor have they reorganized. No public funeral service has been planned yet. Nine of the twelve bodies have been identified and claimed by relatives who will bury them privately.

Cincinnati Man Escapes. Cincinnati, O., March 12.—Charles D. Baker of this city, whose clothing, money and cards were found in some clothing recovered from the St. Louis fire, escaped from the burning building. This information was conveyed to Baker's relatives here on Tuesday in a long distance telephone message from guests at the athletic club on the night of the fire and had managed to escape, but had lost all his clothes and a wallet, where Nuri-Bey died later in the day.

others of that class were for the most part unmarried. But in the present day it is getting so a bachelor in sports is quite a rarity and one has to look about before discovering one. Maybe it's because married men are regarded as being more reliable than the single ones. Or perhaps somehow getting married is becoming generally more of a habit in the present generation. Also the wages they are paid, today make them well able to undertake the venture at any rate we can see that there are more benefactors today in the sports world other than of yore. Two recent examples of married fighters that we all know about are Packey McFarland and Gunboat Smith.

Freddie Welsh had better be on his guard every minute when he meets Joe Rivers this month, because the Mexican will prove a dangerous enemy. Not so much because Rivers has anything at all on Welsh, but merely for the reason that Joe feels sure he can trim Welsh. Rivers for some reason or other feels certain he is going to lam the tar out of the Welshman and this fact alone will help him half way through the fight.

Leach Cross shows a most commendable regularity in winning and losing his bouts. It's pretty safe bet that every other time out he will win with ease, or put up a mighty poor showing, as the case may be. He is due now to clean someone in the most decisive fashion, as he only recently had a very poor showing against Phil Bloom at New York. And although he got the decision, he fought badly, missing many wild swings and appeared in miserable form. We may all look to see him come back like a flash pretty soon.

MILWAUKEE BREWERS SEE PENNANT HOPES

Rookies for American Association Team Gather for Start for Training Trip Next Week.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, March 12.—While Manager Clark of the Brewers attended the schedule meeting in Chicago today, fans began looking over the regulars who are now in town and sizing up the first few rookies who have blown into town with the March winds. The club will not be formally gathered until next week and it won't be all together until the bunch hits Owensboro, Ky., for the spring workouts.

A real pennant pole, the first for which the club has had any use, has been planted out in the park. It is claimed that the first game at home will be a real ceremony with a real pennant to flitter around in the breeze. Just who will have the honor of raising the flag has not yet been announced, but Manager Clark says the notable will not be lacking.

An addition to the Brewer staff this year is a trainer who will be kept throughout the year. He is Al Purman, formerly of the Y. M. C. A. His duties will be to look after the kinks in the muscles of legs and rookies and to see that none of the champs is put on the hospital list too early. Other A. A. teams are adding the trainer to their pay rolls this year also.

BELOIT APPEALS TO TOURNEY OFFICIALS

Line City Highs Ask For Admission to State Meet Following Showing Made at College Tournament.

Coach Wickham of the Beloit high school basketball quintet, has written to the Lawrence college athletic association, asking that his team be given a chance in the running for the state championship. The fact that they held Janesville to such a low count in the final contest at the college tourney last Saturday evening, has encouraged the Beloit team, and they feel that a chance at the state tag should be given them.

BAUMAN WINS SHADE IN BELOIT MATCHES

Main Bout at Beloit Proves Good Exhibition, Bauman Outbitting Graham and Earns Margin.

Walter Bauman, the Milwaukee athlete, who shaded Schaeffer in the Janesville bouts, and Mike Graham of Michigan, battled ten rounds in a draw at the Beloit exhibition last night. Bauman fought the same savage rushing fight as he did at Janesville and in the seventh round had his tail and knobby opponent reeling from the force of his short punches, but Graham clinched and weathered the round.

The popular opinion was that the Milwaukee fighter gave Graham the most punishment and earned a small shade, for in the fighting he was effective with those wicked uppercuts that had Schaeffer going at the local bouts. The first three rounds went to the Milwaukee pug by small shades, for in the fighting he was effective with those wicked uppercuts that had Schaeffer going at the local bouts. Young Corbett of Delavan, who boxed here against Sharkey, went eight rounds to a draw with Posy Williams of Milwaukee, neither boxer hitting enough blows to earn a shade. Bobby Ward, the Beloit bearcat, had his moniker changed and his pugilistic hopes buried last night by Young Scotty, Milwaukee, for Scotty floored the belt hope so many times in the fifth round that the boy was stopped. Ward bested Scotty in their match here, but at Beloit the Milwaukee man had Ward on the run and helpless in the fifth round. The curtain raiser between Tosi, the Italian policeman, and Mathewson, who it is claimed hails from the acres near Orfordville, was a farce match of home interest and the boxers brought the house down with the nail-like swings and clog dance foot work.

Duffy of Milwaukee refereed the card. Duffy is to be the third man in the ring in the title match between Volgaist and Ritchie tonight.

JEFFERSON PLAYERS ARE UNKNOWN FOE

Team to Oppose Champions Tomorrow Evening, Are Considered Weak, With No Definite Proof.

While the Janesville high school basketball champs are not worrying to any extent over the Jefferson contest, which takes place tomorrow evening in the local gymnasium, they are rather on edge, wondering just how strong their antagonists are. No one seems to have ascertained just how strong or weak the Jefferson team is, but the general belief is that they are weak. If they were very strong, it is sure that they would have bid for state honors long before this.

Cap. Hemming will start at center tomorrow. Atwood at left forward. Stickney at right forward. Stewart left guard and Dalton at right guard. A celebration is planned for, to close the regular playing schedule of the highs, and to bid them success in the elimination game and state meet.

Preliminary Contest. The preliminary contest to the Jefferson-Janesville contest will be between the Catholic and Presbyterian fives from the church leagues. Every team took a rest last week, due to the Beloit tournament. As the Congregational-Episcopalian contest, scheduled for last Friday, was played preliminary to the Evansville contest one week ago last Saturday night, the schedule is played off to date.

This Speaker, the pride of the Boston Red Sox garden, and Sam Crawford, dean of Detroit's heavy hitting corps, have received nice fat offers from the new Federal league. They are now in Europe on the Giants-White Sox world tour and have decided not to sign up with their respective teams until after they have conferred with the powers of the Federal league on their return home next month.

Squirrels' Instinctive Gift.

Squirrels, it is said, know how to judge distances accurately, for they seldom jump two distances alike, yet never fail to land safely when an inch too far or too short would mean disaster. And dogs run along beside horses' heels, judging accurately the safe distance, and are seldom, if ever, injured.

Beautiful Labrador Coast.

Doctor Grenfell says that the Labrador coast, which he knows so well, is every whit as beautiful as that of Norway, and he is working on a chart which will be accurate enough to guide pleasure craft through the bays and channels of that shore. There is really nothing to go to Europe for but the ruins.—Youth's Companion.

Many Years' Loss of Memory.

A Nevada case is reported where a man wandered away from his wife and three children. For ten years he was not heard from. Passing through the state again something seemed to snap in his head and he knew himself again. He had gone to Texas, married and had another little family. His wife had died only the week before his knowledge of his real self returned. He attributed his loss of memory to overwork while figuring on complicated contracts.

SAYS SHE'LL SUCCEED SELF AS CHAMPION

May Sutton Bundy.

When May Sutton Bundy, formerly May Sutton and woman tennis champ, gave birth to a boy eight months ago, the tennis experts figured that she'd be too busy with her family to play tennis any more and began looking around for her successor. In a recent interview, however, Mrs. Bundy declared that she had no intention of giving up the championship and could defeat all comers.

SIGNING UP OF BLANDING BY NAPS ADDS BITTERNESS TO BASEBALL WAR

Fred Blanding.

Much bitterness has been added to the baseball war through the signing up of Fred Blanding by the Cleveland Naps. Blanding had previously signed a Federal league contract. Until this time the Federals have made no attempt to sign up players under contract, but they now declare they will nav back the major leagues in the latter's own coin.

Right of Way for STANDARD

When STANDARD comes along all other brands give way — for STANDARD is real tobacco for real men.

This pure Kentucky tobacco is the great favorite with men of vigor. It is full-bodied and satisfying. It gets its pleasant richness from the natural aging we give it for three to five years.

And that is what keeps its quality up, always the same, no matter what the year's crop may be.

STANDARD Long Cut Tobacco

has given prime pleasure to manly men for over half a century. A STANDARD man never switches to another brand; he knows he's just losing time and pleasure on a needless experiment. Many brands come and go into the discard—but old STANDARD is still in the lead.

There's a snappy taste to STANDARD that policemen and other big fellows like. It's got that man-size quality about it; not one of those insipid, next-to-nothing tobaccos—but the big king-brand for the he-men on the force.

A week's trial will make you a permanent user of STANDARD—go to it today.

So'd everywhere in 5c packages.

DISCUSSING TAXES.

The Evening Wisconsin says editorially:

"Is Governor McGovern rushing hither and thither about the state directing a fight against citizens who dare to say that they believe Wisconsin is injured instead of benefited by high taxes? Is Professor Adams of the Tax Commission condemning business men and farmers and other more private citizens who object to high taxes as 'yawpers'?"

Are the small-city state officials all busy with politics and all arrayed on the side opposed to that of the people? They are, and the Wausau Record-Herald suggests why they are. The reason is to save their hides, to prevent their political skins from being hung on the fence next November. The Record-Herald observes:

Don't imagine because there are less than four thousand office-holders in Wisconsin they constitute a small or insignificant force. They are widely scattered. They are filling lucrative positions. The majority of them could not receive in any business employment as much as they draw from the state. They will fight to hold their jobs. Their policy is to divide public opinion. They try to draw the weak by promising the blessings of a dividend in the spoils of taxation. They try to unsettle the conscientious with their eternal pratings about progress. And when they find a man whom they can neither bribe with the suggestion of spoils, nor deceive with their hypocritical cant about the 'uplift' they try to discredit him by calling him a 'stalwart' or a 'reactionary'.

This 'army of occupation' is the thing against which all the people of this state, irrespective of party, should combine. Not until it is defeated, and the cohesive principle of public plunder which holds it together is relegated to the garbage pile, can this state begin to enjoy efficient and economical administration.

There are some fellows not holding office, but candidates for it, who are practically as dangerous to the people as the tax-indulgent incumbents of office. They entertain the same vicious theories of government, and if elected will make the people pay well for the privilege of being 'bossed'.

What is needed to save Wisconsin is to get rid of the army of occupation and all its camp-followers, supplanting them with believers in wise economy of public expenditure and in the good old American theory that office-holders should be the faithful servants of the people.

SUPPOSE —?

(From the Chicago Inter Ocean.) In June, 1904, Theodore Roosevelt was president of the United States; John Hay, secretary of state; Elihu Root, secretary of war, and Paul Morton, secretary of the navy.

Ion Perdicaris, an American citizen, was seized and held for ransom in the mountains of Morocco by a famous bandit named Raisuli.

The United States demanded the release of Perdicaris and President Roosevelt ordered the South Atlantic squadron to Morocco to enforce the demand. A dispatch from Admiral Coadwick suggested that the Moroccan government was not acting in good faith.

President Roosevelt called a meeting of the cabinet, with the result that Secretary Hay sent the following instructions to Samuel R. Gummere, the American consul general in Morocco:

WE WANT EITHER PERDICARIS ALIVE OR RAISULI DEAD. We got Perdicaris alive, and we got him right off quick.

Now, suppose the Wilson administration had said to Carranza: We want Benton's body or Villa's within twenty-four hours.

To be sure, Benton was a British subject and not an American citizen. But our guarantee to the European powers under the Monroe Doctrine made us just as responsible for Benton as if he had been an American citizen.

And, to be sure, Raisuli was merely a brigand, while Villa is a brigand who calls himself a constitutionalist.

Possibly these are the reasons why the Wilson administration ignored Carranza and asked Villa to give up Benton's body—and incidentally to incriminate himself.

Possibly these are the reasons why the Wilson administration finally remembered that Carranza was Villa's superior and made belated demand on Carranza—with the result that Carranza snubbed us by electing to deal only with Great Britain concerning Benton's body.

In the meantime we have not got Benton's body and Carranza and Villa are still juggling with us. And all

Latin America is laughing in its sleeve at us.

SHOULD INVESTIGATE.

Reports that students from the Janesville high school who were in Beloit on Saturday night in attendance on the basketball games, were under the influence of liquor is a discredit to the local school and should be thoroughly investigated by the school authorities and school board. The story is current in Beloit that a certain liquor shop was crowded with Janesville youths after the games until the last car was ready to leave and that the actions of these youths, all under twenty-one, on the car returning was most disgraceful. If drinking is to be part of the celebration of athletic victories, best out the athletic entertainments entirely. In justice to the young men who did attend the games and behaved themselves a most thorough probe should be made by those in authority.

THE COMMISSIONER.

On March 24th, the citizens of Janesville express their preference as to candidates for the nomination for the office of commissioner. There is no lack of candidates to select from and the two receiving the largest number of votes at the primary will be faced on the ticket to be voted on at the regular April election. This makes the primary really an important election and care should be taken to choose the best men possible for the office.

The Milwaukee News is much excited over the proposed organization of a non-partisan voters league in the state and asks most pertinently who is paying the men who are behind the movement. Evidently the News looks at the matter of politics as merely a paying proposition for the workers. They fail to realize that some men can rise above the question of money and work for a cause without seeking recompense for their services beyond the satisfaction of having done a good deed for the benefit of the masses.

THE FAIRS.

This week Janesville is giving the residents of Rock county a sample of what is to come next August when the Janesville fair is held, in its Mid-Winter exhibit at the Auditorium. Janesville is a royal entertainer when it starts out to do things and the exhibit at the Auditorium is well worth attending. It has been arranged for by the Commercial Club members and by the individual work of Secretary Lane assisted by a special committee of the association members. It is just a sample to what the appetites of the residents of the county for the big fair which will be held next August at the Park Association grounds.

Janesville is to have a new post master. It has been so decreed by the powers at Washington. Charles Valentine, who has so long and faithfully served the government and the citizens, is to retire through the exigencies of politics and his place is to be taken by J. J. Cunningham. Mr. Cunningham will find it hard to fill the place vacated by Mr. Valentine but the Gazette bespeaks the support of the citizens for the new official, the same as has been accorded the retiring postmaster whose removal is sincerely to be regretted by citizens generally.

Wilson and Bryan are coming in for some pretty hard raps over their Mexican policy and the proposal to amend the Panama Canal tolls. It comes, strange to say, most bitterly, from the democratic press of the country at that.

Governor McGovern is going to have hard opposition in his campaign for the United States senatorship if La Follette can give it to him. The senator is much in earnest in his attempt to still control the republican party of the state.

Elihu said: "Of course I didn't." Ben said: "Why do you say, 'Of course I didn't'?" Elihu answered Elihu, "It was this way. MOVE FOR NEW PARTY IS URGED BY HOARD

IN LETTER TO GEORGE G. SUTHERLAND, EX-GOVERNOR ASKS DEFINITE ACTION.

DEMOCRATS NO HOPE

Present Wisconsin Democratic Machine Too Progressive To Sponsor An Anti-La Follette Movement.

Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Port Allen, in an open letter to George G. Sutherland of this city, urged the definite creation of a new political faction in the state, suggesting the Home Rule League of Wisconsin. Its purpose would be to wrest control of the state government from the commissions at Madison and thereby secure lower taxation for the people. Following is Mr. Hoard's letter:

"If this movement has any real weight and influence with the voters of Wisconsin, there must be branch organizations created in every possible place. To this end there must be created at once an organizing committee in Madison or Milwaukee whose function should be to secure names of citizens in harmony with its purpose and which shall promote local leagues all over the state.

Fusion or Confusion. "Of course, there will arise the necessity of a political purpose which shall unite all members to some practical end in the use of their votes.

"Whether it is best to unite with the democrats, which would be the killing of all La Folletteism, or the creation of a separate home rule ticket, is a question to be considered. Of course, the latter would result in the election of the democrats if it did not succeed.

"The difficulty with the democrats is that they are poisoned with this same heresy of progressivism. There are Aylward, Joe Davies, Schmitz and Husting, who are nothing more or less than La Follette democrats. They do not stand to present a solid, conservative front to this tax-eating rage that is devouring the state.

Must Repeat the Law. "Then again, the democrats will try to keep up the commissions as harbors of refuge for their hungry parasites, whereas nothing short of repeal of the laws creating them will bring any relief to the people. It will just amount to being taxed to death by hungry democratic politicians making the promise to the ear but breaking it to the heart as it will by bogus republicans. What is wanted is a return to the former simplicity of state government.

"It is supremely ridiculous to say that these expensive flum-diddle contraptions by progressive humbuggers and delusion are needed to conduct the government of Wisconsin.

Back to Anti-La Follette Days.

"All that is necessary to prove my assertion is to lead the people back to a view of the more economic and efficient methods in use before the time Bob La Follette made them believe—really for his sake—that they needed all this useless stuff.

"There has got to be heroic work done in the way of excising these warty excrescences that bid fair to cover the whole body."

At the THEATER

"Peg O' My Heart," the comedy of youth by J. Hartley Manners, will be presented at the Myers theater Thursday, March 12, with Florence Martin in the leading role. Peg, the character of the title, is a young Irish girl, daughter of an improvident Irishman and an aristocratic Englishwoman. The family of the latter have opposed the match and Peg's parents come to America, where she is brought up in poverty. With the opening of the play comes her introduction into her mother's family and of the world have separated the Atlantic from the Pacific. Mr. Howe's scenes, showing in detail how it was done, assume an importance which cannot be exaggerated. They also afford an opportunity of which every American who feels a thrill of pride in the victory, whose patriotic heart beats faster for it, should take advantage. For it is sure to instill loftier ideals in the mind of every spectator that sees how and why Uncle Sam wrought the wonder of the ages and wrested a victory where others had Minister Naon, his wife and Argentine embassy.

Uncle Sam is too poor to buy homes for his diplomatic representatives in foreign capitals, but the little republics of South America are not. The accompanying picture shows the new embassy of the Argentine government at Washington. The building is one of the finest residences in the national capital. It was the home of Mrs. Henrietta B. Huff, is located at 1600 New Hampshire avenue and was purchased by Argentina for $300,000.

many amusing and interesting complications ensue. With all she has her own love affair which arrives at a happy conclusion. CONSTRUCTING THE PANAMA CANAL.

The world's biggest job as reproduced by America's greatest exhibitor will be seen at the Myers theater two days and matinee, March 12 and 13, when Lyman H. Howe will present the biggest feature he has ever offered—the construction of the Panama canal. In conveying ideas of size and quantity to the mind there is a point at which the use of figures—mere figures—becomes almost inadequate. When statistics run into the millions the mind, unless it is assisted by some more or less concrete scale of measurement, fails entirely to form an adequate conception of what they mean. But where both figures as well as words fail so completely Mr. Howe's films step in and tell the wonderful story in the only way which can do justice to the tremendous scope of such a prodigious task. Nowhere on the earth's surface are the eyes of the nations turned with such intense interest as towards Panama because of the stupendous significance of an achievement that has so long been considered an impossibility. Now that Americans have accomplished the "impossible" and have thrown down the barriers which from the creation gone down to defeat. Yellowstone Park—that vast arena carved by nature in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, where numerous geysers are the contending gladiators—is another big feature to be presented. The film shows strange forces of nature more furiously active than anywhere else on earth. The scenes are of such a volcanic nature that the brand of fire seems to lurk everywhere, and as such they convey the real "atmosphere" of a region where fire and water have struggled for supremacy for countless centuries. Next! The views change instantly—to a ride through, under and over the St. Gothard mountains between Italy and Switzerland and take spectators past magnificent mountain scenery and giant peaks through rugged crags and to quaint Swiss villages. Again the scene changes—this time to the Paris Zoo, showing a splendid collection of animals at close range, some of them very little known, such as rheas or South American ostrich, the alpaca, African mountain and the acrobatic tamandua. Then come lively fishing scenes in British Columbia and equally vivacious views of sunny fishing in Palermo. A ramble through the ruins of Pompeii, reproduced in nature's own colors, imparts vivid impressiveness of the havoc caused by the historic earthquake centuries ago. Wood turning and decorating clocks at Saint Claude, Naples, symphonies of the sea, and a ride through the Montana Canyon and over the Cascade Mountains in Oregon on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul's "Olympian," are only a few of the many other features.

PIN PRICKS.

HOW can anyone love another and yet seize every opportunity to hurt him with a little pin prick of sarcasm or unkind allusion? You say it isn't possible? All, but it is, and not only possible but common.

I'm thinking of an average family. At bottom they love each other very much. If anyone of them is sick or in trouble this love comes to the surface, and there is nothing the rest will not do for him.

And yet in their daily intercourse, each one seems to try to think of as many sharp, reproaching, sarcastic things as possible to say about the others.

For instance, The guest whom Judith has brought home to Sunday dinner happens to mention that Judith was late in meeting her. Whereupon big brother assures her: "Oh, Judith is always late. You mustn't expect her to get to any place on time. I always reckon on a half hour out of the way."

Again, little sister spills the coffee, when she is passing it to the guest. She is a sensitive little thing under the crust of pretended hardness which the family habit of saying sharp things has forced her to assume. And she really suffers when Judith says scornfully, "Agnes has ten thumbs you know instead of fingers. I don't believe she ever passed anything in her life without spilling it."

Someone asks big brother if he has read a certain rather serious book that is being much talked about; and when he says he hasn't, Judith has a chance to retort with a thrust by informing his questioner that John never reads anything besides magazines, and newspapers. "It's against his principles."

You would think that mother and father would surely be too wise to indulge in any such baiting. And it is her mother who says, "It won't do you much good to wish that Judith, when you couldn't even do that simple center piece properly. You know you never can embroider like other girls."

And when mother drops her fork, it is father who asks her if she has borrowed some of Agnes' thumbs.

Of course, I understand that there is a certain percentage of raillery in all these remarks, and a certain half playful, half serious spirit of thrust and feint.

Each has the right to give as good as he gets, and the non-combatants applaud the victor.

But although theoretically, nobody minds what anybody else says, in reality these little pin pricks of sarcasm and reproach often leave a lacerated heart.

It doesn't do anyone any good to be constantly reminded of his faults, even by his family.

Freedom of speech in the home, or in the nation, is an inalienable right, but when it degenerates into license of speech, it is wrong and harmful. And those who guide the destinies of either home or nation should curb it.

Women Worth While.

MRS. HENRY D. D. CLAYTON.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon.

The regime of a Democratic president, himself a man whose traditions are those of the south, has naturally given great prominence to the southern contingent of society in Washington. Much of the entertaining at the capital during the present season, while not less generous than that of former administrations, has been of the informal, cordial character for which social life in the south is noted. At the White House, for the first time since the days of Andrew Jackson, the cuisine is mostly southern. Old southern recipes are in great demand for every sort of social function, and southern hostesses are much to the front.

Prominent among a group of young southern matrons in official life is Mrs. Henry D. Clayton, wife of Representative Clayton of Alabama. Step within Mrs. Clayton's front door and you find yourself, not in an environment that suggests the south of fifty years ago, but that is the south of the old days.

Mrs. Clayton has brought to Washington from her girlhood home at Georgetown, Kentucky, many of the beautiful old things that went to make her grandfather's home one of the most attractive in that part of the state. She has massive old pier tables, on which stand candlesticks and epergnes that would make any collector green with envy. Her grandmother's parlor set in black walnut, elaborately carved, a wonderfully laid mahogany table, old secretaries and rare prints are a few of the treasures she possesses. A mahogany bedstead and bureau which are probably as massive and handsome as any in existence are two pieces in a bedroom that is furnished, without a discordant note, entirely in antique furniture. All the rugs used by Mrs. Clayton are made from wonderfully beautiful old carpets that were ordered from England seventy years ago, each showing the quaint center designs of a great vase filled with flowers. Likewise the hangings and draperies are those stitched together by hand of ropes of gaily colored silk, after the fashion of a half century ago. Rugs, draperies and beautiful furniture contribute to the environment that is one of the most mellow, harmonious, yet stimulating to the imagination, that one could desire. They make a home which no woman who is sensitive to beauty could enter without a thrill of pleasure.

Mrs. Clayton is fond of society. She has a capacity for enjoyment and a cordiality of manner that had won a

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Black chip hats, as a rule, only need oiling. Use a little sweet oil and rub it off with a piece of black velvet.

When washing white chambray gloves the yellowish look they often get can be avoided by rubbing them with the white of an egg while they are still wet.

When ripping old garments use a small steel crochet hook for pulling out the threads and the work will be twice as easy. Use this for pulling out the bastings, also.

A mixture of salt and flour will remove mud stains.

THE TABLE.

Cream Souffle.—Two cups of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, four tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs, one-third cup of cream. Mix and sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar and the salt. Rub in the butter with the tips of the fingers; add the eggs well beaten and cream. Toss on a floured board, pat and roll to three-fourths inch thickness. Cut in squares, brush with the white of an egg, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven fifteen minutes.

Soft Gingerbread.—Two eggs, one cup of sugar, one and three-quarters cups of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of ginger, two-thirds cup of thin cream. Beat the eggs light and add the sugar gradually. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with the cream to the first mixture. Turn into a buttered cake pan and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Peppers and Rice.—Cook half a cupful of rice in plenty of boiling water, and a little salt, for twenty minutes. Drain in a colander and set at the back of the range to dry off. Heap in a deep dish.

Prepare your pepper by cutting open lengthwise and extract all the seeds and tough white fiber. Slice crosswise. Lay in cold salted water for ten minutes, then wipe dry. Fry them in a great spoonful of butter. Lift them from the pan and chop rather coarsely. Add to the hot butter and peppers a teaspoonful of onion juice and two tablespoonfuls of stock. Boil up and pour upon the rice. Set in the oven, covered, for three minutes and serve.

Chicken Salad.—Cut cold boiled fowl in one-half inch cubes and marinate with French dressing. Add an equal quantity of celery, washed, scraped, cut in small pieces, chilled in cold water, drained and dried in a towel. Just before serving moisten with cream, oil or mayonnaise dressing. Mound on a salad dish and garnish with the yolks of hard-boiled eggs forced through a potato ricer, capers and celery tips.

Tapioa Custard Pudding.—Four cups of scalded milk, two-thirds cup of pearl tapioca, three eggs, one-half cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of butter. Soak the tapioca one hour in cold water to swell, drain, add to the milk and cook in a double boiler thirty minutes; beat the eggs slightly, add the hot mixture, turn into a buttered pudding dish, add the butter, bake thirty minutes in a slow oven.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

I HAVE told you of the Spaniard who always put on his spectacles when he ate cherries, so that they might look more tempting. In like manner you should look at Southern.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

The good old Virginia corn bread and griddle cakes are a treat when made as they were originally.

Virginia Corn Cakes.—Scald a pint of cornmeal with three-fourths of a pint of boiling water, cover and let stand while you separate and beat two eggs. Add a cup of sour milk, a teaspoonful of soda to the yolks and a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of sugar to the meal. Beat the ingredients all together and fold in the whites of the eggs the very last. Have the griddle well heated, and bake a rich brown before turning.

Mock Venison.—Lay a leg of mutton in a dish with diluted vinegar, a fifth vinegar and four-fifths water; add two small sliced onions, six pepper corns, six cloves, a dozen allspices, four bay leaves and one tablespoonful of crushed juniper berries. Roast the mutton after it has laid in this vinegar solution four days. Use the vinegar to baste with when roasting.

Hominy Pudding.—Scald two cups of milk in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch diluted with a little cold milk; cook for ten minutes. Reheat two cups of cooked hominy, add the thickened milk, one cupful of sugar, a fourth of a teaspoon of salt, one square of chocolate melted, two eggs well beaten and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake until firm in the center. A few raisins may be added, if desired.

Raised Doughnuts.—Take a cup of butter, a cup of sugar, a teaspoon of cinnamon or nutmeg, and two eggs well beaten. Work this mixture into 'tough cupfuls' of bread dough ready for its second rising, and let it rise an hour or so. When light, add a few chopped raisins, citron and currants. Roll thin, cut out and fry in deep fat. Roll in powdered sugar before serving.

Prune Souffle.—Remove the stones from half a pound of stewed prunes, press through a sieve, add the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Fold in the whites of four eggs, turn into a buttered baking dish and bake until firm. Serve at once with whipped cream and sugar.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR! NO MORE DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Hair coming out? If dry, thin or faded here's an inexpensive, delightful tonic—Grows hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy, and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am coming to you as a final resource and ask you to give me your honest advice. I have thought so long and so deeply until my brain is in a whirl and I can decide nothing for myself.

I am twenty-four years old and in love with a boy of twenty-two. He is a boy of splendid character and more settled in his ways than most boys of that age, and he holds a man's position. He loves me dearly, but I have never let him know how much I care for him. I am perfectly happy when I am with him and almost forget the years between. Then when I get alone all the old doubts arise and I blush to think I could care for a mere boy. Will you please advise me?

I see no reason why you should not marry this young man, if you are congenial in your tastes. Your sentimental in years is so small that it should not make any difference. I hope you will be very happy, my friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Kindly advise me what would be nice to serve to six or eight girls whom I have invited to spend the evening. As I am a young girl and am boarding, it is rather hard to serve much. (2) Is it all right to be out with a young man to a theater and then go to a restaurant without a chaperone? (3) What will cure dandruff?

(1) Get a can of potted ham and a can of potted chicken, a loaf of white bread and a loaf of brown bread. Make dainty sandwiches. Have a bottle of filled olives and a bottle of pickles and let the girls help themselves. You can buy dainty little cakes and cookies at the bakery and serve everything on pretty paper dishes with paper napkins. That you can buy in stores. If you have any chocolate, that would be nice. If not, have bottles of ginger ale or make lemonade of the bottled lemon syrup now sold by the grocers.

(2) If you are old enough and the man is respectable, there is no particular harm in it. But it's not best for young girls to be up late at night at any time. Go home right after the theater and get your beauty sleep, my dear.

(3) Rub a little bit of alcohol into the scalp every day and keep your hair brushes and combs scrupulously clean. Never use any but your own combs and brushes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is the best thing to do for eyebrows that are grown together? Mine are not awfully bad, but still can be noticed without looking close. Does it do any good to put them out between the eyes or does that make them come back in thicker?

BOY OF TWENTY.

You can pull them out with tweezers, but of course they will grow out again. The electric needle will take them out for good—a rather expensive operation, however. Why not leave the brows alone? They probably do not look bad at all.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of thirteen and graduated in February. Would you advise me to go to high school or business college?

It depends somewhat upon your circumstances. If you feel that you must earn money soon, take the business college course. Girls nowadays need to know something about business, anyway, and if you cannot afford to spend four years in high school, by all means prepare yourself in a commercial way.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) After a bereavement in a home and you meet a person and they say they are sorry for your troubles, what answer should you give?

(2) What would you do if you were accused of writing vile letters to a person in your own town, when you are innocent of it? It just breaks my heart to think of it.

(3) What would you consider a man after going with you then talking about you?

CONSTANT READER.

(1) Thank them for their sympathy. (2) I would demand that the accusation be proved. (3) He is not much of a gentleman. I hope you gave him no occasion to say anything detrimental to your character. Too often a girl allows a man a good deal of liberty, trusting that he is a gentleman, only to discover later that he was only amusing himself and amusing others by tales of her "easiness."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls and very intimate friends. (1) When a gentleman brings a girl as far as the doorstep, is it proper for her to say thank you to him? (2) Where may we get a book on manners?

CURLY LOCKS AND BLUE EYES. (1) It would be polite to thank him for seeing you safely home. It never hurts to be polite, my dear—even to a man. (2) Write to any large book store for a book on etiquette. There are several good books on this subject.

Bible Was Put Into Rhyme. Versifications, not only of the Psalms but of the other books of the Bible, were numerous in the sixteenth century. One of the most prolific versifiers was William Hunnis, who, under such fanciful titles as "Seven Sobs of a Sorrowful Soul for Sin," "A Handful of Honeysuckles," "A Hivell of Honey," etc., published a number of rhyming versions of Genesis and Job, which are now worth their weight in gold to the bibliomaniac.

EVERYDAY TALKS FOR EVERYDAY PEOPLE

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Some of our domestic science workers claim that a good housekeeper does not need a garbage bucket. Just read that over again, please! Being careful in the kitchen may mean extra trouble but it also means a considerable saving at the end of a year in one's household expenses. When a woman is saving by means that do not spell penury she is earning.

After a meal instead of quickly scraping up everything that is left, look carefully over what there is and see what recipe you can call into use for the next meal to add you in again using the perfectly good food that has not been consumed.

The best and most economical way to cook potatoes is with their jackets on. Even though you want mashed potatoes you can boil them with the skins on, peel quickly and throw back into the kettle to dry. In this way you can save not pounds but bushels of potatoes each year. This has been proved by experts.

Cabbage and cauliflower water make a good foundation for soup without meat. Onion soup gives a fine flavor to tomato or vegetable soup. The first water in which beans are boiled before they are baked if seasoned can be served as bean bouillon. This saving is not only a matter of economy but is a great aid to good cooking. It's often the indefinable flavor that makes certain dishes so sought after.

The roughest, greenest tops of the celery should not be thrown away. Chop fine, dry on brown paper in the oven and powder. When mixed with a little black pepper to help to keep you have a fine seasoning. Better than you can buy for sauteing and from the flavor of celery, pepper intensifies it.

If you have a cupful of boiled rice left over from dinner add an egg to it season and shape into flat cakes to brown in the oven. A poached egg on top of each cake makes a very appetizing supper dish. Left over mashed potatoes can be used in the same way.

If you take care to render every bit of fat that comes into your kitchen you will decrease your land bill materially. If you watch your bread box, putting aside the pieces of uniform size for toast, keeping the small scraps for griddle cakes and the unsightly bits for bread puddings, you will find that a sack of flour can be reduced in price.

It's the little leaks that sometimes sink the ship. If not remedied in time, no matter what a man's salary he will not forge ahead if the keeper of his home be not a good manager. To be a splendid earner and just as good a spender is not wisdom. We all want a good income. However, it is the part of our income we are able to save that eventually counts. What per cent of your income are you able to save?

Cool Cucumber. The cucumber usually has a temperature one degree lower than that of the surrounding atmosphere. Hence the expression "cool as a cucumber."

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Cure Little, but there is Nothing Better at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and whooping cough. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

"Why should you think that, Patrick?"

"Because you don't seem to be taking much interest in your surroundings here," said Pat loftily. He delivered a smart smack on the crupper with his stubby whip, and pursed his lips for the companionship to be derived from whistling.

"I suppose you know why I went to Europe," said Booth, laying his hand affectionately on the man's arm.

"Sure I do," said Pat, forgetting to whistle. "And was it bad luck you had, sor?"

"A temporary case of it, I'm afraid."

"Well," said the Irishman, looking up at his employer with the most profound encouragement in his wink, "if it's any help to you, sor, I'll say that I've never found bad luck to be anything but temporary. And believe me, I've had plenty of it. Mary was down near three years makin' up her mind to say yes to me."

"And since then you've had no bad luck?" said Booth, with a smile.

"Plenty of it, begob, but I've had some one besides myself to blame for it. There's a lot in that, Mr. Brandon. When a man marries, he simply divides his luck into two parts, good and bad, and if he's like most men he puts the bulk of the bad luck on his wife and keeps to himself all he can of the good for a rainy day. That's what makes him a strong man and able to meet trouble when it comes. The beauty of the arrangement is that bad luck is only temporary and a woman enjoys talking about it, while good luck is wad us nine-tenths of the time, whether we know it or not, and we don't have to talk about it."

This was fine philosophy, but Booth discerned the underlying motive.

"Have you been quarreling?"

"I have not," said Pat wrathfully. "But I won't say as much for Mary. The point of my argument is that I have all the good luck in havin' married her, and she claims to have had all the bad luck in marryin' me. Still, as I said before, 'tis but temporary. The good luck lasts and the bad don't. She'll be after tellin' me so before sundown. That's like all women. You'll find it out for yourself wad of these days, Mr. Brandon, and ye'll be down proud ye're a man and can enjoy your good luck when ye get it. The bad luck's always fallin' behind ye, and ye can always look forward to the good luck. So don't be downhearted. She'll take you, or me, name's not what it ought to be."

Booth was inclined to accept this unique discourse as a fair-weather sign.

"Take these bags upstairs, Pat," said he on their arrival at the cottage, "and then come down and drive me over to Mrs. Wrangall's."

"Will ye be after stayin' for lunch with her, Mr. Brandon?" inquired Pat, climbing over the wheel.

"I can't answer that question now," "Haven't help both as us if Mary's good luncheon goes to waste," said Pat ominously. "That's all I have to say. She'll take it out at both as us."

"Tell her I'll be here for lunch," said Booth, with alacrity. From which it may be perceived that master and man were of one mind when it came to considering the importance of Mary. Pat studied his watch for a moment with a calculating eye.

"It's half-past eleven now, sor," he announced. "Dye think ye can make it?"

Booth reflected. "I think not," he said. "I'll have luncheon first." Whereupon he leaped from the trap and went in to tell Mary how happy he was to be where he could enjoy home cooking.

At four he was delivered at Sara's door by the astute Patrick, announced by the sedate Watson and interrogated by the intelligent MURRAY, who seemed surprised to hear that he would not have anything cool to drink. Sara sent word that she would be down in fifteen minutes, but, as a matter of fact, appeared in less than three.

She came directly to the point.

"Well," she said, with her mysterious smile, "she sent you back to me, I see. He was still clasping her hand. 'Have you heard from her?' he asked quickly.

"No. But I knew just what would happen. I told you: it would prove to be a wild-goose chase. Where is she?"

He sat down beside her on the cool, white covered couch.

"In Switzerland. I put her on the train the night before I sailed. Yes, she did send me back to you. Now I'm here, I want the whole story, Sara. What is it that stands between us?"

"For an hour he pleaded with her, all to no purpose. She steadfastly refused to divulge the secret. Not even his blunt reference to Challis Wrangall's connection with the affair found a vulnerable spot in her armor.

"I shan't give it up, Sara," he said, at the end of his earnest harangue against the palpably unfair stand both she and Hetty were taking. "I mean to harrow you, if you please, until I get what I'm after. It is of the most vital importance to me. Quite as much so, I am sure, as it appears to be to you. If Hetty will say the word, I'll take her gladly, just as she is, without knowing what all this is about. But, you see, she won't consent. There must be some way to override her. You both admit there is no legal barrier. You tell me today that there is no insanity in her family, and a lot of other things that I've been able to bring out by questioning, so I am more than ever certain that the obstacle is not so serious as you would have me believe. Therefore, I mean to pester you until you give in, my dear Sara."

"Very well," she said resignedly. "When may I expect a renewal of the conflict?"

"Would tomorrow be convenient?" he asked quaintly.

She returned his smile. "Come to luncheon."

"Have I your permission to start the portrait?"

"Yes. As soon as you like."

He left her without feeling that he had gained an inch along the road to success. That night, in the gloaming of his starlit porch, he smoked many a pipeful and derived therefrom a profound estimate of the value of tact and discretion as opposed to bold and impulsive measures in the handling of a determined woman. He would make haste slowly, as the saying goes. Many an unexpected victory is gained by dilatory tactics, provided the blow is struck at the psychological moment of least resistance.

The weeks slipped by. He was with her almost daily. Other people came to her house, some for rather protracted visits, others in quest of pillage at the nightly bridge table, but he was seldom missing. There were times when he thought he detected a tendency to waver, but each cunning attempt on his part to encourage the impulse invariably brought a certain mocking light into her eyes and he veered off in defeat. Something kept telling him, however, that the hour was bound to come when she would falter in her resolution; when frankness would meet frankness, and the veil be lifted.

There were no letters from Hetty, no word of any description. If Sara knew anything of the girl's movements she did not take Booth into her confidence.

Leslie Wrangall went abroad in August, ostensibly to attend the aviation meets in France and England. His mother and sister sailed in September, but not before the entire colony of which they were a part had begun to discuss Sara and Booth with a relish that was obviously distasteful to the Wrangalls.

Where there is smoke there is fire, said all the gossips, and forthwith proceeded to carry fagots.

A week or so before sailing, Mrs. Redmond Wrangall had Booth in for dinner. I think she said in famille.

At any rate, Sara was not asked, which is proof enough that she was bent on making it a family affair.

After dinner, Booth sat in the screened upper balcony with Vivian. He liked her. She was a keen-witted, plain-spoken young woman, with few false ideals and no subtlety. She was less snobbish than arrogant. Of all the Wrangalls, she was the least self-centered. Leslie never quite understood her thoroughly understood him.

"You know, Brandon," she said, after a long silence between them, "they've been setting my cap for you for a long, long time. She blew a thin stream of cigarette smoke toward the moon.

He started. It was a bolt from a clear sky. "The deuce!"

"Yes," she went on in the most casual tone, "mother's had her heart set on it for months. You were supposed to be mine at first sight, I believe. Please don't look so uneasy. I'm not going to propose to you." She laughed her little ironic laugh.

"So that is the way things stood, eh?" he said, still a little amazed by her candor.

"Yes. And what is more to the point, I am quite sure I should have said yes if you had asked me. Sounds odd, doesn't it? Rather amusing, too, being able to discuss it so unreservedly, isn't it?"

"Good heavens, Viv!" he cried uncomfortably. "I—I had no idea you cared—"

"Cared!" she cried, as he paused. "I don't care two pines for you in that way. But I would have married you, just the same, because you are worth marrying. I'd very much rather have you for a husband than any man I know, but as for loving you! Pooh! I'd love you in just the way mother loves father, and I wouldn't have been a bit more trouble to you than she is to him."

"Gad, you don't mind what you say!"

"Falling to nab you, Brandy, I dare say I'll have to come down to a duke or, who knows? maybe a mere prince. It isn't very enterprising, is it? And certainly it isn't a gay prospect. Really, I had hoped you would have me. I flatter myself, I suppose, but, honestly now, we would have made a rather nice looking couple, wouldn't we?"

"You flatter me," he said.

"But," she resumed, calmly exalting, "you very foolishly fell in love with some one else, and it wasn't necessary for me to pretend that I was in love with you—which I should have done, believe me, if you had given me the chance. You fell in love, first with Hetty Castleton."

"First?" he cried, frowning.

"And now you are heels over head in love with my beautiful sister-in-law. Which all goes to prove that I would have made just the kind of wife you need, considering your tendency to fluctuate. But how dreadful it would have been for a sentimental, loving girl like Hetty!"

He sat bolt upright and stared hard at her.

"See here, Viv, what the dickens are you driving at? I'm not in love with Sara—not in the least—and—"

He checked himself sharply. "What an ass I am! You're guying me."

"In any event, I am right about Hetty," she said, leaning forward, her manner quite serious.

"If it will ease your mind," he said stiffly, "I plead guilty with all my heart."

She favored him with a slight frown of annoyance.

"And you deny the fluctuating charge?"

"Most positively. I can afford to be honest with you, Viv. You are a corker. I love Hetty Castleton with all my soul."

She leaned back in her chair. "Then

Good Heavens, Viv! He Cried, Uncomfortably.

why don't you dignify your soul by being honest with her?"

"What do you mean?"

For a half-minute she was silent.

"Are you and I of the same stripe, after all? Would you marry Sara without loving her, as I would have done by you? It doesn't seem like you, Brandon."

"Good heaven, I'm not going to marry Sara!" he blurted out. "It's never entered my head."

"Perhaps it has entered hers."

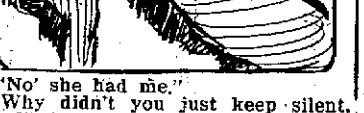

"Nonsense! She isn't going to marry anybody. And she knows how I feel toward Hetty. If it came to the point where I decided to marry without love, 'pon my soul, Viv, I believe I'd pick you out as the victim."

"Wonderful combination!" she said with a frank laugh. "The quintessence of 'no love lost.' But to resume! Do you know that people are saying you are to be married before the winter is over?"

"Let 'em say it," he said gruffly.

"Oh, well," she said, dispatching it all with a gesture, "if that's the way you feel about it, there's no more to be said."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

or 'No' she had me. 'Why didn't you just keep silent, then?' inquired his friend. 'That's what I did, and she said,

"That's what I did, and she said,

"That's what I did, and she said,

"That's what I did, and she said,

"That's what I did, and she said,

"That's what I did, and she said,

"Silence gives consent," and that ended it."

A newly married pair had escaped from their demonstrative friends and were on their way to the station, when the carriage stopped. The bridegroom looked out of the window impatiently.

"What's the matter, driver?" he cried.

"The horse has cast a shoe, sir," was the reply.

"Great Scott!" groaned the bridegroom. "Even the horse!"

The new parson was making pastoral calls in his parish and stopped to converse with a small boy at the garden gate.

"And where does your father go on Sundays, my little man?"

"Well, on fine Sundays he goes golfing and on wet Sunday he turns us all out to Church so he can have a bit of peace in the house."

5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. HODGDON, ME.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

2. CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor, and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Winona St., Charlotte, N. C.

3. HANOVER, PA.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—Mrs. ADA WILK, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

4. DECATUR, ILL.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—Mrs. LAURA A. GRISWOLD, 2300 Blk. East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Av., Cleveland, O.
